

YOUR COACH'S CONFESSION

Mark Horbinski

I'm worlds away from perfect but I do the best I can - Although you may not know it, I am your biggest fan

I wrestle with the lineups trying to get them right - before the sun's up in the morning and late into the night

I want so very badly for you to taste success - your happiness consumes me to the point where I obsess

But sometimes tough decisions loom as the season passes - and the choices that I have to make aren't popular with the masses

Maybe if I were a better coach we would all go from good to great - then everyone would get their chance to participate at State

But the odds are stacked against that;
I'm just an average man - Yes I am far from perfect so forgive me if you can
